Quickest way to get a GC

Quickest way to get a GC <sup>[1]</sup>

Submitted by Chief Editor on Mar 23rd 2010

I was a resident physician on the H1B visa.. Prior to completing residency, I got the EAD(my husband , a pharmacist had applied for a Green card through his company). That was in 2006 and we have since made no progress as the EB3 numbers are not current. I did not renew my H1B after the initial 3 years because I could work with the EAD. Would I get a GC faster if I start my own application or should we keep waiting? Can both of us have seperate applications without one affecting the other? Are we better off just waiting?

ANSWER:

Generally speaking, where there is a choice, we always file multiple green card applications for spouses.
