EB-2 or EB-3 ^[1]

Submitted by Chief Editor on Apr 22nd 2014

I have two Bachelor's degrees from US universities. A 3-year Bachelor degree in Science and a 2-year Bachelor's degree in engineering. Will I be considered for a EB-2 visa with this? In case I don't qualify for EB-2, my dilemma is that, I have worked approx 4 years at my current job. Should I wait another year to file EB-2 or should I just file EB-3 now? Also, do internships qualify when counting the number of years of work after school?

ANSWER:

Internships do qualify as experience. You need to get your degrees evaluated under AACAO EDGE standards first .
